Do's, Don'ts, and the Basics of Providing Care to Patients Experiencing Intimate Partner Violence

Joseph Polich, MSW, LCSWA, JD

Social Worker

UNC Health - UNC Medical Center

University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

WEBINAR DESCRIPTION

This presentation aims to provide foundational knowledge to providers who come in contact with patients with cancer who are also experiencing Intimate Partner Violence (IPV).

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Describe basic concepts of interpersonal violence, and improve our ability to distinguish between IPV and a relationship experiencing conflict.
- Discuss how IPV may affect cancer patients specifically, particularly in those situations that involve caretaking and financial dependency.
- Identify “red flags” that IPV might be affecting cancer patients
- Identify common resources and ways of supporting cancer patients who are experiencing IPV
- Improve the way in which we offer resources and support to our cancer patients who are experiencing IPV
