

Claiming CE Credit In the UNCLCN Learning Portal

CME Credit

To claim CME credit, a person needs to do the following:

- attend a Live Webinar for a minimum of 53 minutes
- be able to see video and slides
 - joining by Audio-only does not qualify for CE credit
- complete the online evaluation within seven days
- select credit type
- download the certificate instructions

Our system only acknowledges credit claims after the attendee downloads their certificate instructions.

Certificates are not given but credit can be accessed on the attendee's CPD's portal.

To issue CME credit, our accrediting agency requires the following information from the attendee:

- first name
- last name
- email
- UNC PID (if you have one)
- degree/credentials
- UNC status

After seven days, we report CME requests to our accrediting agency, who then issues CME credit to qualifying individuals.

ACPE Credit

To claim ACPE credit, a person needs to do the following:

- attend a Live Webinar for a minimum of 53 minutes
- be able to see video and slides
 - joining by Audio-only does not qualify for CE credit
- complete the online evaluation within seven days
- select credit type
- download the certificate

Our system only acknowledges credit claims after the attendee downloads their certificate.

To issue ACPE credit, our accrediting agency requires the following information from the attendee:

- first name
- last name
- email
- NABP eProfile ID number
- date of birth

After seven days, we report ACPE requests to our accrediting agency, who then submits ACPE credits to the NABP Monitor.

Credits can take 2-3 weeks to appear in the NABP monitor. If your ACPE credit has not appeared in the NABP after this time period, please reach out to us, and we will work with our accrediting agency to ensure your credit is there.
