2020 PAGANO AWARD

RECOGNIZING OUTSTANDING POSTDOCTORAL PAPERS

The Joseph S. Pagano Award has been established to annually recognize notable papers authored by our Postdoctoral Fellows. Winners are selected through a competitive process and are honored for their authorship of articles that create a significant advance in one or more fields.

Eligible papers are written by postdoctoral fellows holding a position in the laboratory of a member of the UNC Lineberger Cancer Center, and were published or accepted for publication in 2020.

Authors of the three top papers receive a cash prize, and will give a featured talk at an upcoming Lineberger event.

Applications Due April 12, 2021.

Guidelines for Pagano Award

The Pagano Award was established in 2002 to annually recognize noteworthy papers authored by our Postdoctoral Fellows. Winners are selected through a competitive process and are honored for their authorship of articles that create a significant advance in one or more fields. Papers submitted must meet the following criteria:

- Applications should be submitted by the Preceptor of the nominated candidate and should be a member of the UNC Lineberger Cancer Center; any Postdoctoral Fellow in the Preceptor's lab can be nominated
- Research must have been completed while the Fellow was at UNC
- Fellow must be primary author or co-first author of the nominated paper
- Paper must have been accepted or published in 2020. If paper was accepted but not published during the 2020 year, the Journal's letter of acceptance must be included with the application

Application packet must include:

- PDF of the paper
- Letter from the Preceptor briefly summarizing the Postdoc's background, the scientific impact of the paper, and the Postdoc's relative contribution to the paper. While a description of the Postdoc's contribution is expected for all applications, it is particularly important for co-first authors papers or papers with multiple authors.
- Letter from the Postdoctoral Fellow, describing the scientific impact of the paper, in 200 words or less

Applications are due by 5:00 pm on Monday, April 12, 2021.
